

Final Rites Held For Mrs. Lydia Ann Sweat

Died Feb 27. 1908
Mrs. Lydia Ann Sweat, 65, wife of Brigham Sweat of Daniel, died at the family home early last Sunday morning, from stroke.

She had attended the ward party and dance on Saturday and had seemingly enjoyed herself very much, but took seriously ill soon after they arrived home.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Ray Elliott, eight grandchildren, four of whom Mr. and Mrs. Sweat have raised from childhood. She is also survived by three brothers: Joseph Smith of Provo, Francis Smith of Daniel and William Smith of Salmon, Idaho.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon in the Daniel ward house, with Bishop F. Preston McGuire conducting. The opening song, "I Need Thee Every Hour," was rendered by a mixed chorus, and the opening prayer was offered by John H. Carlen. Other musical numbers were "Oh, My Father" sung by the chorus, Afton Thacker taking the solo part; a trio, "He Walks with Me and He Talks with me," by Roy Jean Cushing, Emer Broadbent and Afton Thacker, accompanied by Sarah C. Giles. The closing number sung by the chorus was "Behold 'Tis Eventide".

The speakers were Z. A. Bethers, Joseph A. Orgill, George W. Johnson and Bishop McGuire, each of whom told of the worthy life Mrs. Sweat had lived, and admonished those left behind to follow her fine example. There were many beautiful flowers and an exceptionally large attendance. Interment was in the Heber City cemetery, where the grave was dedicated by John H. Carlen.

Fall On Stairs Kills Provo Man

PROVO—An 83-year-old Provo man died at a Provo hospital Wednesday about 4:30 p.m. of injuries suffered earlier in a fall down a flight of basement stairs.

Brigham Sweat, 83, 470 S. 8th West, suffered a head laceration, broken wrist and possible internal injuries when he fell on the stairs at the home of James B. Clark in Provo.

He was visiting at the Clark home at the time of the accident.

Witnesses said he stepped too far to one side and fell as he entered the basement.

Mr. Sweat was born May 9, 1872, at Center Creek, Wasatch County.

During the last few years he had lived with three step-grandsons, in Provo, Pleasant Grove and Heber.

Survivors include one brother, Joseph Sweat, Fruitland, Uintah County.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.
